

Canadian Air Liner Crashes Killing 118

STE. THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (AP)—A four-engine Canadian jetliner plunged to earth in driving rain Friday night, killing 118 persons.

The crash was the worst in Canadian aviation history and the world's second worst single plane disaster. All the dead—111 passengers and a crew of 7—were believed to be Canadians.

The crash occurred just four minutes after the Trans-Canada Air Lines DC8 jet took off in heavy wind and rain from Montreal's Dorval Airport on a 300-mile flight to Toronto.

Eyewitnesses disagreed whether the plane exploded in the air or after plowing into a muddy field outside Ste. Therese de Blainville, a factory town 20 miles north of Montreal.

The plane dug a crater at least 90 feet wide and 6 feet deep.

Rescuers began searching for bodies this morning. Bodies and wreckage were strewn over at least a quarter-mile.

Airline officials expressed doubt about determining the cause of the crash by the usual piece-by-piece reconstruction of the plane. The government immediately ordered an investigation.

A Trans-Canada spokesman said there was no question of sabotage.

The plane crashed at 6:32 p.m. EST. Witnesses heard a terrific noise—"like an atomic bomb," some said—and saw a red ball of fire. The wreckage burned for two hours.

The plane hit 800 feet from a row of houses along Highway 11, crashing midway between the road and an expressway to the Laurentian Mountains a resort area north of Montreal.

One of the first persons to reach the wreckage was a local constable, Noel Aubertin. "I heard this immense explosion," he said. "It sounded like an atomic bomb. My car radio went out of commission."

"I don't remember seeing the plane at all. I just heard the loud crash. I ran to the scene and all I could see was a mass of fire."

At first much of the plane's mud-splattered fuselage appeared intact, but it was quickly consumed by fire. Identification of the plane remained uncertain until a rescuer found a life jacket with the airline's monogram on it.

The worst single civilian plane crash occurred in Paris in June 1960 when an Air France jet went down, killing 130 persons, 121 of them Americans.

No Publicity on Probation of JFK Will

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today it considers probating of the late President John F. Kennedy's will a private family matter and will have no announcement on it.

Assistant press secretary Andrew Hatcher said, "I consider that a private family matter and will not entertain any questions on it unless a member of the family requests it."

Hatcher's comment came in response to a question about where and when the will would be probated. He said he did not know. When asked if he would check, Hatcher refused.

The late President is reported to have had holdings amounting to about $10 million.

The calculation, dating from the time of Kennedy's inauguration in January 1961, is a rough one.

At that time Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said he had income of about $500,000 a year—about $100,000 after taxes—from trust fund investments. Newsweek figured that on the basis of a 5 per cent return that would represent capital of about $10 million.

Identical trust funds for the late President and his sisters and brothers were set up in 1926, 1936 and 1949 by their multimillionaire father Joseph P. Kennedy.

Funds Flow in for Slain Policeman

DALLAS (AP)—Funds for the family of slain Policeman J.D. Tippit are flowing into the Dallas Police Department at such a rapid rate that accountants are unable to reach a total, officers said today.

Lt. Verne K. Hipskind, officer in charge of the counting detail, said he and several officers worked through Thanksgiving Day doing some of the earlier work in a different way.

This was done on the advice of accountants that each donor receive a handwritten receipt.

By Thursday night, Hipskind and his detail had processed 1,000 pieces of mail—that received only through last Tuesday.

Large mail sacks of contributions remained to be processed. Tippit died of gunshot wounds when he sought to arrest a suspect in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Police charged Lee Harvey Oswald with the slayings of both Kennedy and Tippit. Oswald himself was slain later.

Hipskind said the money will be given to Mrs. Tippit "in a lump sum. This takes all the work off the widow."

The lieutenant said some checks are being sent to Mrs. Oswald, the Russian-born widow of the accused assassin.

"This is less than $50 at the moment, but we have a great lot of mail to go into," said Hipskind.

Civil Rights Johnson's Big Problem

An AP News Analysis By JACK BELL, AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The political necessity of getting Congressional action on civil rights is President Johnson's biggest domestic problem—just as it was John F. Kennedy's.

The current mood of moderation among the lawmakers may produce some relatively speedy action on aid to education, vocational training and other bills when they return from their holiday next week.

But the fierce controversy over the late president's program for an expansion of racial equality will test all of Johnson's vaunted ability to tack with the legislative wind to reach his objective.

Johnson has called for action now on Kennedy's civil rights legislation. The possibilities of getting it likely will be discussed today at a meeting between Johnson and Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Kennedy's relations with Congress were building to a crisis—a situation Johnson has inherited. Yet the new President cannot afford in an election year not to get what Negro voters regard as meaningful civil rights legislation.

Kennedy's strength with the Negroes was unquestioned, Johnson's is not readily assessable. If he President has to compromise the rights bill to get Congressional approval for it, he could lose ground sharply with Negroes, particularly if the Republicans nominate a strong civil rights advocate.

There now is no apparent way to move past the barrier of a Southern Democratic filibuster in the Senate a bill containing the controversial section that would enforce desegregation on selected businesses dealing with the public.

If Robert F. Kennedy remains as attorney general and Johnson follows his advice in this field, the President would refuse to compromise this provision any further.

The attorney general thinks that any civil rights legislation without a strong public accommodations provision would be unacceptable to Negroes.

House leaders began oiling up two old parliamentary moves to prevent the Southern-led Rules Committee from blocking action on the civil rights bill.

One would bypass the committee; the other would temporarily strip Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., of his control over the 15-member group. Smith is strongly opposed to the rights measure.

Both moves are intended to produce early compliance—probably in January—with Johnson's plea for less talk and more action on civil rights as a memorial to the late president.

This is the tale of a nail, and it's real square. The nail, not the story.

It came from the old Benefield Hotel at Fulton, which has recently been torn down. The structure was one of the original shell homes, although it wasn't given that label by its builders. The walls were unfinished for a number of years, but about 50 years ago they were covered.

The building was quite remarkable for a number of reasons. For one thing, the boards used were not 2 x 4's, but 2 x 6's, 2 x 8's, and even 2 x 10's. All were heart pine or cypress and were 20 feet long! The rough lumber was white washed when it was first used, and after the demolition had begun, the men who were working on it recently found the lumber under the wallboards was still white washed.

Though the building was well over 100 years old, there was no decay to mention and not a single termite. Because it was erected on pillars of bois d'arc wood, naturally, the foundation was excellent since bois d'arc won't rot.

Ownership of the hotel-boarded house changed hands a number of times, but Mrs. Mattie Wilson was probably the first owner. Other owners included E. H. Ammonette, Andy Reed, Bill Nelson and daughter, and Mrs. Henry Wilson.

The greatest surge of business at the hotel as well as at every other establishment in Fulton was in 1929 when the highway bridge was being built. Engineers and others working on the bridge quickly filled the 10 bedrooms upstairs and the three large bedrooms downstairs. Four more bedrooms were added later. The lobby was on the right as you entered, manager's quarters were on the left, and a large dining room was in the center of the house.

There, 24 people could be served at two large tables. Though probably not built as a home but as a hotel or boarding house from the very beginning, there were tiny, dark, greasy spots two feet above the stairway which proved that small children once live there.

Courthouse records show the first purchase price of the hotel in 1876 was $1200, and last sale was for $400. The last buyer was primarily interested in the lumber the building contained, of course. No, the plumbing couldn't be salvaged, for there never was any. No water pipes ever found their way to the confines of this old two-story structure, which had something else old-fashioned and quite lovely—a porch upstairs and down stairs across the front.

This Fulton landmark is now a thing of the past, but when the last traces of the structure disappeared, so did 20-foot cypress boards and old square nails that could have told many stories if they had had the gift of speech. They probably had seen Jim Bowie stop there overnight on his way to Texas, or perhaps they knew stories about cotton merchants who often stayed there en route to New Orleans. They might even have shared the chill of a wash tub bath when the temperature dipped to 15 degrees.

If an old, square nail could only talk! For Claude Wilson of Fulton brought me one from that old hotel.

Memorials to Kennedy Vary Widely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of President Kennedy has inspired a surge of memorials in his name. They range from a street in Paris to the giant missile base at Cape Canaveral, now Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The Beckley (W. Va.) Post-Herald proposed today that West Virginia be renamed "Kennedy, or perhaps Kennedyland," saying he called it the state he held "most dear, after his own state."

President Johnson Thursday night changed Cape Canaveral's name, which dates back at least 365 years, to Cape Kennedy. He had asked the Post Office Department earlier to issue a stamp in Kennedy's honor.

The Paris city council named a committee to pick a street that will be named Avenue or Rue John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

In Lincoln, Neb., LaVerne Holscher has asked the 19 property owners on the two-block street where he lives to agree to change the name to "Kennedy Drive."

Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., proposed that 50 million silver dollars expected to be minted next year bear the image of Kennedy.

Schools in Butte, Mont., and Bethpage, N.Y., have been named for Kennedy and dozens of other school districts are considering such suggestions.

Proposed memorials also include dozens of parks, squares and highways, an airport, a cultural and civic centers, dams and scholarships.

In Dallas, where Kennedy was assassinated, the city's park board is considering several proposals to establish memorials in Kennedy's name.

Delays Hearings on Race Sit-ins

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Chancery Judge Lawrence Dawson postponed indefinitely today a hearing on an injunction against sit-in demonstrations at McDonald's, a hamburger stand.

Dawson said the hearing could not be held today because his court reporter is ill. He said it probably will be reset in mid-December.

Dawson issued a temporary order Aug. 15 restraining the Pine Bluff Movement, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and others from staging demonstrations at McDonald's where sit-ins were staged for several weeks running last summer.

Today's hearing was to determine whether the temporary order would be made permanent.

GOP Women to Shop Sympathy

The Hempstead County Republican Women have passed the following resolution:

Being above all, Christians, secondly loyal Americans, and then republicans, we deplore the terrible act that has taken the life of President Kennedy. We hold a great and abiding respect for the office of president, even though our philosophy may differ from the man that holds the office. We are a group vitally interested in good government and hold the belief that the two party system and checks and balances have made America strong and great. During this period of the next 30 days, we will refrain from partisan political action and in doing so offer our heartfelt sympathy to the late President's family.

Arms Cache Is Traced to Castro

WASHINGTON (AP)—Confirming that an arms cache found in Venezuela came from Cuba, the United States offered today to join with Latin-American governments in stepping up surveillance "to thwart further attempts by the Castro regime to export arms."

The U.S. offer was announced by State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips in a statement concerning Venezuela's charging of Cuba with aggression by smuggling in arms.

Based on discovery of a three-ton arms cache, the Venezuelan government, which has been fighting Red terrorists trying to disrupt presidential elections coming Sunday, announced Thursday that its accusations against Cuba would be brought before the Organization of American States.

Co-op and AP&L in Agreement

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas Electric Cooperative Corp. and Arkansas Power & Light Co. signed a long term agreement Tuesday covering distribution of power from a proposed generating station near Augusta.

The agreement is subject to the approval of the Arkansas Public Service Commission.

The pact provides that AP&L would move power for AECC from the 117,000-kilowatt Carl E. Bailey Steam Electric Generating Station and from Southwest Power Administration to rural customers of AECC. AP&L also would transmit power between the SPA and AECC electric systems.

The Bailey plant is scheduled for completion July 1, 1966, and the transmission contract would extend through June 30, 1976, with options for renewal.

Election In Venezuela In Final Windup

By ROBERT BERRELLE, Associated Press Staff Writer

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Thousands of Venezuelans jammed the streets of Caracas in a rousing windup of the presidential election campaign today, defying Communist and Castro threats to shoot them down.

The seven candidates, meanwhile, policed right down to Friday's midnight deadline. The election, to select a successor to pro-Western President Romulo Betancourt, is Sunday.

Terrorists of the pro-Castro Armed Forces for National Liberation (FALN) Friday, warned the city's population of 1.5 million to remain indoors from midnight Friday until Monday or face the possibilities of being shot.

The FALN is trying to frighten the population from voting and thus gain a legal basis for declaring the election invalid. Venezuelans paid little attention to the threats.

Still ringing in the voters' ears was Betancourt's charge that Fidel Castro's Cuba had committed aggression against Venezuela by supplying the FALN with over three tons of arms.

The arms were discovered buried in a beach near Caracas Nov. 2.

Cuba and its Soviet allies claim the charge was a "provocation" against Cuba, but the United States and most of the Latin-American nations are siding with Betancourt.

Betancourt is constitutionally prevented from succeeding himself, but the candidate of his Democratic Action party, Raul Leoni, is believed a sure winner. There was doubt, however, if the party could win a congressional majority without which stable government may be difficult.

The FALN continued holding Col. James K. Chenuat, deputy chief of the U.S. military mission, and threatened to harm him unless the government releases 71 terrorists, including six that were arrested after they hijacked a plane and flew to Trinidad Thursday.

The terrorists, who abducted Chenuat from his house Wednesday, originally promised to free him unharmed today.

Pubkeeper Wants to Save Glasses

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Relations between a pubkeeper and a glass-eating customer almost reached the breaking point. "It's getting a bit much," complained pubkeeper Reinald Johnson, host at the Roebuck. "He was eating two or three glasses a night."

The glass eater is Stanley Raynor, 50, a Royal Air Force pilot in World War II. Every evening he has been showing up at the Roebuck, downing a half pint of beer and gobbling up the glass.

"No more glasses," Johnson said three nights ago. "All right," snapped Raynor. "No more glasses, no more drinking here. I'll take my business elsewhere."

An hour later he telephoned Johnson: "Sorry, I can't find glasses as tasty as yours anywhere. May I return to the Roebuck?"

"Well—" Said the pubman, hesitating. "If you eat any more glasses, you're going to be charged glassage."

"I'll think it over," replied Raynor.

He didn't turn up Thursday night but he said he expected to return to the Roebuck over the weekend with a compromise proposal.

"He better have a good one," said the pubkeeper.

"I have," said Raynor. "I'll either pay glassage or bring my own glasses."

The former pilot said he began eating glasses during the war.

"It happened to long ago," he said, "that I've forgotten how it started, a bet, I expect."

Discovered He Couldn't Do It

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Police said western singer Johnny Cash told them he stepped on the gas when he saw a patrolman coming up behind him because:

"I just wanted to find out if I could still outrun a police car."

After a 6-mile chase up the Ojai Freeway at 90 m.p.h., officers said, he discovered he couldn't.

Cash, 31, was cited Thursday for speeding and for driving without having his operator's license with him.

Crisp, Clear Weather in Arkansas

Arkansas was blessed today with weather it should have had Thursday for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Skies were clear and temperatures crisp throughout the state as a cold wave that moved into Arkansas Thursday pushed aside massive areas of light rain.

Highs Thursday in the mid 50s contrasted with maximums expected in the mid 40s to near 50 today. Overnight lows dropped below freezing in the northern portion of the state.

The forecast calls for fair and colder today and tonight and fair and not so cold Saturday with highs 40 north to near 50 south today and lows 18 north to 28 south.

A low pressure center moving out of the area Thursday resulted in widespread rains. The heaviest amounts in Arkansas were in the south with rainfall up to ½ inch. Elsewhere the amounts were generally in the neighborhood of ¼ inch.

The five-day outlook calls for temperatures near normal, cool over the weekend and warming early next week, but little or no rain.

Russia Has Intensified Space Race

By ELTON FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, exponent of a vigorous national space program, found himself confronted today with dramatic new evidence of Russia's intensified pace in the race.

The Soviet Union Thursday night announced a new series of rocket tests in the Pacific Ocean beginning next Monday and lasting almost two months.

The tests said the Soviet news agency Tass, will be made "in view of the enlargement of the program of scientific research in the further exploration of outer space."

The series presumably is part of the Soviet Union's program to land men on the moon—a program on which the United States also has embarked, with the support of Johnson.

The Moscow announcement came at almost the exact moment Johnson, in his speech to the nation, announced he was honoring the late President Kennedy by renaming the launch area and missile test center at Cape Canaveral the John F. Kennedy Space Center and renaming the cape itself Cape Kennedy.

During the course of his address Johnson, without elaboration, also said that "our defenses are secure."

The United States is expected to keep close on the new Soviet rocket tests.

It has become custom for U.S. ships, aircraft and radar stations track Soviet rocket firings into the Pacific.

One of the impact areas designated in the Moscow announcement is in the vicinity of the Marshall Islands, where previous rockets have been directed. The other is northward in the Pacific, generally east of Tokyo.

The U.S. is able to track Soviet rockets virtually from the point of launching in the Caspian Sea area to the impact point in the Pacific.

Radar tracking stations, with ranges of several thousand miles, are believed to be operating in Turkey. These provide data on the initial phase of the flights.

Another powerful station in the Aleutian islands can pick up the image of the rockets as they soar high above eastern Russia and follow them down to where ships and aircraft track them in the final phases of trajectory.

Chief Justice Warren Will Head Panel

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has named a top-level panel to investigate the assassination of President John F. Kennedy so that the nation, the world and history will know the facts.

That was Johnson's mandate to the special presidential commission named Friday night. He chose Chief Justice Earl Warren to head it.

Johnson was understood to be determined to avoid multiple inquiries that could cloud the facts about the murder of Kennedy in Dallas a week ago Friday and the shooting two days later of the man police charged with killing the President.

The new President said he had chosen the commission "to study and report upon all facts and circumstances relating to the assassination of the late President John F. Kennedy and the subsequent violent death of the man charged with the assassination."

That man was Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, a self-styled Marxist. Oswald, accused of shooting the president from ambush as Kennedy motored through downtown Dallas, was himself gunned down in the city police station last Sunday as he was about to be transferred to the County Jail.

A night club operator named Jack Ruby has been indicted for the point-blank shooting of Oswald.

In addition to Warren, Johnson named six to the commission: Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.; Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La.; Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich.; former Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen W. Dulles, and onetime disarmament negotiator John J. McCloy.

The President signed an executive order authorizing the commission to subpoena witnesses and granting it other powers it might need to investigate.

Johnson talked with each member of the commission before announcing its creation. He set no time limit on its inquiry, and White House sources said Warren will decide when the commission will go to work.

Boggs had proposed a bill to set up a House-Senate committee to investigate the slaying. It was one of a handful of measures calling for special committee inquiries into the assassination of Kennedy and the shooting of Oswald.

However Friday night Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee which had made preliminary plans for an investigation, said: "You couldn't have a Senate investigation and a presidential commission at the same time. I favor what the President is doing."

A court of inquiry convened by Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr also will look into the case.

5.2 Million Chicks Started

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas producers started 5,276,000 broiler chicks during the week ended Nov. 23.

The figure, estimated by the Crop Reporting Service, was seven per cent higher than the previous week.

Of the placements, 4,654,000 were hatched in Arkansas and 622,000 shipped in. Arkansas exported 288,000 chicks during the week.

The Crop Reporting Service estimated that 6,922,000 eggs were set for broiler chicks during the week, four per cent more than the previous week.

Propaganda From Russia Shows Dread

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Moscow propaganda in the wake of President Kennedy's assassination seems to reflect a feeling of dread.

In the Kremlin's reaction there is detectable a fear that the American public will turn its wrath upon communism, as such, because a man labeled a pro-Castro marxist was accused of killing the President.

Premier Khrushchev and his supporters, beset by enormous economic problems, and a deep split in the world Communist camp may be apprehensive that Soviet foreign policy could collapse before a hardened U.S. attitude.

The propaganda is full of veiled warnings. The government newspaper, Ivestia, which can be considered a voice of Khrushchev himself, said "President Kennedy's death has undoubtedly aggravated the situation in the United States."

"The struggle between sober-minded Americans and the forces of rabid reactionaries who will not miss the chance of using the situation for their own ends, will be very tense," Ivestia's editorial said Monday.

Khrushchev's policy is pegged to peaceful coexistence, as he calls it. This implies that since war is unthinkable, the two greatest powers must agree on dangerous issues. As practiced, coexistence has involved probing, testing, edging close to danger — as in Cuba and Berlin — and retreating when there is risk of a collision which could trigger war.

Kennedy confronted Khrushchev with shows of strength in Berlin and in Cuba. But the Kremlin knew Kennedy and respected him as an antagonist. President Johnson still is an unknown quantity to the Russians, and Moscow deeply suspects what it does not know or understand.

Moscow has been cautious lately. Its caution is reflected in a mild response to the humiliation and expulsion of Soviet diplomats from the Congo.

Ivestia expressed fear that the assassination may have deadly parallels with the 1933

Grant, Disney Have Pair of Yule Shows

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Those two canny film makers, Cary Grant and Walt Disney, have wrapped up a pair of dandy Christmas packages for the nation's theaters.

The attractions are "Charade" and "The Sword in the Stone," and they show the two old masters at their ingenious best.

"Charade" is the type of thing that no one does better than Grant—the sophisticated comedy-adventure. This one turns up four dead bodies before the killer gets his. But even death is treated lightly and doesn't impinge on the general fun.

In his first starring film, Grant is once more caught in the middle, with danger on all sides and a gorgeous girl clinging to him.

The girl this time is Audrey Hepburn. She plays a recent widow, whose husband spirited $250,000 of Nazi loot away from OSS buddies during the war.

There are lots of surprises, some rather far-fetched, but the whole thing is carried off in such great style that you don't care.

"The Sword in the Stone" is the first new Disney cartoon feature in two years and one of the better ones. Three years in Reichstag fire which brought Hitler to power in Germany. There, it pointed out, Communists were blamed.

All this indicates that before long the Kremlin will want to test Johnson and his intentions.

SHE LIVES IN SHADOW OF HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

By Helen Worden Erskine

Dear Helen: My husband and I were married 14 months ago. He was 19 and I, 17. In spite of deep love from one another, our marriage seems to be getting worse instead of better.

My mother-in-law lives next door to us. My husband was her favorite of six children. I continued working after we married to help pay for our furniture. Since we didn't take a daily paper or own a TV, my husband started drifting over to her home after dinner to read the news or watch TV while I stayed behind to do housework.

With my job, housework and pregnancy, I always felt very tired at the end of the evening. But sometimes I'd get so lonely I would leave the housework and join my husband at his mother's. This made it twice as hard later. Finally, I quit my office job three months before the baby came.

We still didn't have all the furniture we needed so my father bought it and a wonderful organ for us. In a way this was taking over my husband's responsibilities. To make it worse, my husband doesn't play the organ. I do. So I persuaded my father to let me exchange it for a TV and electric refrigerator.

Our baby had come and I was being a good cook, housekeeper and mother.

Still my husband goes to his mother's. If I try to tempt him with some dish she cooks, he complains it's not as good as hers. He'll follow me around the house and say, "Mama does it this way, not that," till I could scream. He even tells me how much better she and his sisters were rearing their children than I. He wants to change me into a carbon copy of them. I used to be good-natured but now I'm a shrew.

What can I do to keep our marriage from going on the rocks? —Baffled

Dear Baffled: I sympathize with you. It isn't easy to live in the shadow of in-laws. Try turning tables on your husband. Remind him frequently that he is not as good a husband as your father was to your mother. When he flies off the handle, as he surely will, say, "Calm down. I'm simply showing you what it feels like when you compare me to your mother and sisters."

If he still fails to understand how distressing this is for you, go house hunting in a district far removed from his mother. Once you locate a suitable place, play up its advantages as against the disadvantages of your present home. If you find a bargain, so much the better. Meanwhile, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Mother Complex." It will help you in dealing with your husband.

Dear Helen: I've been going with a man eight years. When the subject of marriage is raised he evades the question. I love him so much and it seems like he does me yet won't commit himself. I've been faithful but he refuses to believe it. He is divorced, I am single. How can I prove my great love for him? —Waiting

Dear Waiting: I wish I could say the man you describe is a good prospect for marriage, but if he is ducking the issue after accepting eight years of your devotion, he is either exploiting your affection or he really does not want a wedding.

Could you just quietly change your attitude? Stop professing your love. Give him no further encouragement. If he doesn't commit himself after that, call the romance off and be thankful that you did.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TOWER TRANSIT—It's the end of a day's work for this lineman, and instead of a bus he catches a helicopter. It's strictly routine procedure in a 22-mile transmission line project being carried out by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in California. Because much of the line runs over inaccessible terrain, a helicopter is being used to ferry linemen and equipment to the tops of the towers—some of which will stretch 360 feet into the sky—as well as to string wire between the structures. Company officials figure that a week's work is accomplished in about half an hour, thanks to the helicopter.

Ann Kenyon: Surgeon

By Adeline McElfresh

CHAPTER XXX

The silence was profound, the kind of shocked stillness that is suddenly significant.

Helen Ledbie's capped fountain pen at the moment gave the desk an imperative rap. "I feel sure Ledbie Memorial is fortunate to get Dr. Kenyon, Lester."

The man shrugged. "I hope you're right."

"I'm sure I am," Helen Ledbie's tone and her smile were cool. She turned to Ann.

"Please accept my apology, Dr. Kenyon. I trust Mr. Bookley will make his own."

Lester Bookley turned a muddy red.

"Dr. Kenyon is waiting, Les," Peter McDonnell said in a tone so controlled that Ann sent him a swift glance.

The plea remained unspoken as she said, "It's—all right. After all, as a member of the board, it is Mr. Bookley's privilege to ask questions." She met the sullen eyes, went on unsmilingly, "My decision to come to Ledbie Memorial was not an impulsive one. I weighed many factors including I don't mind telling you, this hospital's lack of many of the facilities to which I had become accustomed."

"Such as a blood bank?" Kitty Linsen inquired.

Ann said yes. "There are others but a hospital can manage without enough nurses and with no central supply, which would prevent them running their legs off."

"Ledbie Memorial has been doing it for years," Mrs. Linsen remarked dryly and Ann felt like cheering. Mrs. Linsen glanced at Mr. Scott and past him before she turned to Helen Ledbie. "Helen, will you accept a motion we meet again next week to discuss the blood bank in more detail in a public meeting."

Helen Ledbie hesitated; then, "Of course."

Dr. Scott said quickly, "Second! I also move that we make it an open meeting. After all, old Murphy Ledbie wanted this town to have a hospital or he wouldn't have been here."

In the making, it is taken from the formative years of King Arthur. It is the kind of thing that the Disney artists do best. While the action is principally about humans, there are scenes in which young Arthur is turned into animals by his mentor Merlin and the wicked wizardess Mim; they transform themselves from one creature to another in a brilliant sequence that ranks with the best in animation history.

wouldn't have given us Ledbie Memorial, and I think he meant it to keep on being as good as it was in his day."

Ann was conscious of Helen Ledbie's eyes going speculatively from her to Peter McDonnell.

The whole town was talking about the way Mrs. Linsen, Mr. Scott and Cleveland Vance had "put one over on" Helen Ledbie and Dr. Lyle, and a public meeting could do no more than call attention to the stricture about the way the hospital was being run. Ann considered the probability frowningly. Murphy Ledbie, for all that his memorial to his wife had been well-intentioned, had done the town a disservice when he specified in his will that the final decision on any matter concerning the hospital be in the hands of the Ledbie who "shall head the hospital board by virtue of being a Ledbie" and not with the majority of the board.

Cass Llewellyn hadn't been too far wrong with that crack about the "ridiculous mouse." A public meeting could only invite more adverse criticism, stir more gossip. Her lips grew taut at the thought. There was too much talk now, and not all of it about her and Peter. Connie Morris, somebody had picked up somewhere and fed into the grapevine, had been in a private nursing home in Howell for a while after Dr. Lyle took her from Ledbie Memorial, and guess where she was!

In that government hospital in Lexington, Kentucky, and if that doesn't prove she was on dope!

"That's the old gossip - mill for you, Ann," Dave Clyde said when she mentioned it as they were having coffee in the hospital's small coffee shop.

"I suppose so."

"I know so, and so do you," He sat in silence for a time. "Doc Lyle has been riding the crest for a long time, Ann, perhaps just so. He is a good surgeon, I won't argue that. Or perhaps I should say a skilled surgeon. In my book being a good surgeon encompasses more than an ability. But he doesn't make friends and when a bad piece of business like the Byrons' baby is followed by another bad piece of business, Nora Roberts—"

Ann's heart constricted. "What have you been hearing, Dave?"

"Oh, one thing and another. Chiefly that Doc Lyle has been called on some of his

State Holiday Deaths on Highways 3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas' first three Thanksgiving holiday deaths came Thursday at De Queen and Little Rock.

A car missed a curve in East Roosevelt Road at Little Rock near the Municipal Airport and overturned, killing two of the three persons inside.

James N. Marshall, 25, of Garner, suffered minor injuries. He told police he was driving the car.

The victims were Clarence Marshall and his wife, Mamie, of Little Rock. Marshall said they were his aunt and uncle.

James Michael Wolf, 10, of DeQueen was killed when a pickup truck ran off U.S. Highway 70, hit a grocery store and bounced into him.

Officers said the truck was driven by Mrs. Alvin Crews of De Queen, who explained that she swerved off the highway to avoid a collision with oncoming traffic.

One wall of the store was knocked in.

Another boy, Claudie Bailey, operations at City."

She asked, "Because of Nora Roberts?"

Dave Clyde said, "It figures. Conrad has some patients over there. It's still pretty hush-hush and may stay that way, but Con picked it up and passed it along." He spun a coin on its edge and sat watching it.

"Les Bookley is Doc Lyle's boy, Ann," after long moments. "Keep an eye on him."

Had a Little Family Trouble

CINCINNATI (AP) — Anna Bosse came home from church Thursday and found a young man sitting on the couch with his shoes off and talking on the phone. He'd fixed himself a hamburger and was drinking beer.

Mrs. Bosse, 57, said he told her not to worry—he wasn't a burglar. He was just having trouble with his wife and had no place to go.

He then asked her to fix him a cup of coffee and after she brought it, he said everything had been patched up and he was going home.

Mrs. Bosse told police she gave him 50 cents for bus fare—and then discovered he had taken $3.50 from her purse while she was fixing the coffee.

Ex-Newsman Dies at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Allen Tilden, an insurance executive and former newsman, died Thursday night in a Little Rock hospital. He was 62.

Tilden was on the staff of the Arkansas Democrat for 33 years before he joined the American Foundation Life Insurance Co. He was a district manager for the insurance firm.

Death came after a lengthy illness.

Tilden joined the Democrat as a reporter in 1920. He later served as sports editor and as city editor for 10 years until he left the newspaper.

During his tenure with the Democrat, Tilden was president of the Arkansas Associated Press Association for two years.

Survivors include a widow and three sons.

the streets at night because of the number of people being robbed, stabbed, shot or dragged into alleys to be raped.

Adlai E. Stevenson, twice a presidential candidate and now U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, found exactly one month ago, also in Dallas, that not even a man in his position was safe from some violence on the street.

After leaving an auditorium, where he made a speech on the 18th birthday of the United Nations, he was surrounded by pickets, one of whom spat in his face. He was hit on the head with a sign carried by a woman.

Stevenson, who has a fine sense of history, freedom and justice, told her: "It's all right to have your own views but don't hit anyone."

Sunday Chief Justice Earl Warren, at a eulogy beside Kennedy's casket, wondered what moved "some misguided wretch" to murder the President.

He said: "We do know that such acts are commonly stimulated by forces of hatred and malevolence such as today are eating their way into the bloodstream of American life. What a price to pay for fanaticism."

He knows about fanaticism. Hate has spilled all over him and the other justices of the Supreme Court for their decisions on the side of freedom and civil rights.

He has been ridiculed and mocked. There have been calls to lynch him and impeach him for "giving aid and comfort to the Communist conspiracy."

Also Sunday former Vice President Richard M. Nixon asked all Americans to "pledge themselves to fight this tendency of hatred and violence we've seen in the last two days. We cannot help but deplore a man taking the law into his own hands."

And Dr. A. Raymond Grant, a Methodist bishop in Oregon, said: "I shuddered when I learned that crowds cheered when Lee Oswald had been killed. God have mercy upon us, that human life has become so cheap and that tragedy has been heaped upon tragedy."

"AM I RICH"

...this thoughtful man reflects. Men call him a captain of industry but that may not make him successful. He has no fear of the future as far as the comforts of life go but, never-the-less, he stands in pensive thought. Has he given companionship to his children? Has he taken them to the right places? How often has he sat with his family in church? Would they call him a good Father, a successful husband? Has he shared in building a good community and civic institutions? Any man is much richer who does these things. But who is the truly rich man? What is the distinguishable mark? If he should die this night, who would miss him? Would neighbors be made poorer by his going? Would any hungry folk go without food because his hand was stayed? Perhaps he is asking the ancient question... am I rich with God? All of us should ponder, "just what will I carry into His presence when I go?" What are the qualities which make a rich person? That man is truly rich who leaves a poorer world by his going. Then come with me to church and learn of the ways of God.

You In The Church
The Church Is You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come in us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.
